Representative LeGage Ptatt, one of the members-elect of the sixtleth Congress, is most outspoken in his advocacy of the Pennsylvania avenue improvement proposition.

"I am in hearty sympathy with the proposed improvements of the squares on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue," said Mr. Pratt to a Star reporter today, "and concur without reservation in every word of approval and indorsement of the plan which has been indicated by others in the columns of The Evening Star.

A Great Duty.

"There are few duties imposed upor men, institutions and governments greater than that of anticipating and providing, in so far as it is possible to do so, for the probable requirements and necessities of the future. Those who from lack of courage, inclination or interest undertake to shun this obligation are not numbered among those who help to make the world go round. To anticipate the future needs of our National capital, and to do now those thing which will insure a proper preparedness for future governmental requirements, to say nothing about the advisability and wisdom of increasing, to the fullest extent possible, its attractiveness, is a present duty and should be per-formed without hesitation.

"Let the worn-out and ragged fringe to the majestic avenue be stripped off and in its place put on a bordering as beautiful as the highest in architectural and land-scaping arts can supply. These are my sentiments."

Old Friend of the Plan. Representative William Richardson of Alabama is equally positive-similarly enthusiastic

"I am," he said today, "an earnest advocate of the improvement and beautification of Washington city. I have expressed these views by my votes for several years past. I believe that Washington ought to be made the most beautiful and attractive capital of any of the nations of the world. of one's competitors are I favor the condemnation of the property able elements in business. fronting on the south side of Pennsylva-nia avenue for the erection of government buildings. I believe that if this plan is adopted it will not only add more than anything else to the beauty of the city, but that it will facilitate the transaction of public business. I am not fully advised as to the plan for beautifying the Mall, and therefore would not like to express an opinion on that subject. How-ever, I can say that I am an advocate for whatever plan or scheme looks to the beautifying of the city. I recognize this to be a patriotic duty."

Representative Edward L. Hamilton of Michigan told a Star reporter today:

"While as a citizen I am interested in having our National capital expressive of our country, my services in Congress have not brought me into sufficiently close re-lations with the subject of beautifying the Mall to enable me to speak with suffi-cient knowledge. However, in my judg-ment, that part of the city south of Pennsylvania avenue is a standing argument in favor of improvement. The clearing away of present buildings and the erection of such government buildings as may hereafter be required, upon properly prepared sites, would do more to improve now think of. But I am not in favor of going into this or any other scheme of improvement without the most careful consideration of the expense involved."

additional park purposes."
"It was a great mistake," said Representative M. E. Driscoll of New York," that in the original location and construction of administrative buildings they were not located close together instead of being scattered all over the city, as they now are. It may be as well to commence the concentration of those buildings now. and the property south of the avenue is most available for that purpose. NEW YORK, November 23.-Nicholas M. Smith, jr., and his young wife, Grace, were found shot to death in their blazing home. 80 Woodland avenue, New Rochelle this morning. The firemen had hardly got their bodies to the yard before the house was a mass of flames, and was consumed with its entire contents.

The police base their suicide and murder theory on the report that Smith, who was in the automobile business in New York, has suffered heavy financial loss during the present money stringency.

He was looked upon as a successful man, and he and his wife were popular among the society people of New Rochelle, where they were seen constantly together spinning about the neighborhood in their automobile. Smith appeared to be very much in love with his wife.

GARY'S BUSINESS ETHICS.

Does Not Believe in Killing All Competition.

NEW YORK, November 23 .- E. H. Gary, chairman of the directorate of the United States Steel Corporation, has struck a new and remarkable keynote in respect to business rivalry. In an interview in which he was reviewing the speech he made here recently to representative steel and iron men, Mr. Gary is quoted as saying: "Too many men have learned too late that the friendship of the public and the confidence of one's competitors are the most desir-

"I want to see how competitors succeed. It is the policy of the steel corporation not to crush competitors by fair or foul means. The steel trust controls about 60 per cent of the steel and iron business of the United States, and there is no intention of enlarging that control. We believe conditions will be better with healthy rivalry.
"It is clear that the United States Steel Corporation, with its extensive resources, could use its giant strength, like other corporations, to crush competition. But in the end would the game be worth the candle? The corporation would become an object of attack. In my judgment such a policy would be the undoing of our cor-poration, in which billions of dollars are invested.

CONFERENCE WITH CORTELYOU

Calls on President by Appointment and Has Over an Hour's

J. Pierpont Morgan and George F. Baker, the latter president of the First National Bank of New York city, arrived here vesterday afternoon for a conference with Secretary Cortelyou of the Treasury At 10 o'clock last night Messrs, Morga and Baker, accompanied by A sistant Sec. retary Robert Bacon of the State Depart. ment, went to the White House to see the President by appointment. The object of their visit was not divulged, but it was believed to be in relation to the anancial situation. Mr. Morgan said the President had sent for him.

Upon leaving the White House at 11:25, after being with the President an hour and a half, Mr. Morgan, on being asked in regard to any developments, replied that conditions in New York were reassuring. He said everything possible was being done to relieve the money stringency, and that the situation was satisfactory. Mr. Morgan said also that his object in coming to Washington was to see Secretary Cortelyou in furtherance of the conference he had with the Secretary in New York last week, at which time means were discussed for the further re-lief of the situation. He saw Secretary Cortelyou before going to the White House, he said, and called on President Roosevelt to pay his respects.

Significance of the Visit.

The visit of Mr. Morgan to Secretary Cortelyou and the President last night was generally accepted here today as evidence that the financial leaders in New ocratic national committee, Maj. Menzies York intend to co-operate with the Treasthe new loans. Mr. Morgan's views and advice have commanded much attention, because of his detachment in a large measure from recent speculative banking enterprises in New York and the breadth of view which his friends declare he has always brought to conditions like the present. It is known that his influence was great in saving the trust company situation in New York when it was exceedingly critical three weeks ago as the result of lack of co-operation among the trust companies

Mr. Morgan has long favored some modification of the existing currency system, but has not, so far as his friends ar informed, undertaken to prepare any detailed plan of his own. He found Secretary Cortelyou in agreement with him that several steps should be taken to give greater elasticity to circulation and to restore confidence, but did not insist

The populists are pleased with the trend of public sentiment, for the people were never more patriotic in time of war than in this financial crisis. Best of all, the government is with us, for the first time in my remembrance on a like occasion.

"By the way, Bryan has hit the key-note. Let the government guarantee the bank deposit. It is easy as guaranteeing the bank notes, and that inexpensive. A tax on the bank deposits of less than onehalf of one per cent in one year would pay all the losses from national banks since they were organized.
"The government should issue all cir-cutating notes direct and attend to the elastic feature automatically or otherwise. In short, the government should to a little farther into the banking business, as other governments do, and the banks should recede a little from government business. Mr. Ferriss denied that an alliance was

The last trace of Lieut. Crawford placed him aboard the Alexandria ferry boat, which left the local wharf at the foot of 7th street southwest at 6 o'clock last evening. Crawford reached the wharf about five minutes before 6 o'clock, and he went directly to the ticket window.
